Michael Goddard teaches Bagua, Mikkyo and Reiki that he learned over eight years in the Shingon Temple in Honolulu from Masters from Japan and Hawaii. Bagua is a moving meditation martial art that Dong Haichuan learned from Taoist masters in the forests of rural China during the nineteenth century. Characteristic movements of Bagua are the fluid circle walking and generating of spiral energy during movements.

Mikkyo is the clearing, energizing and connecting of the chakras and meridians into one strong unit through the application of hand mudras and mantras. The spiral energy generated during Bagua is used in the practice of Mikkyo. Mikkyo is also applied in the energetic healing of people, places and things. In 2016 Michael and his students from his Berlin Seminars will travel through Germany investigating, connecting with and when necessary, clearing energies in places. All interested parties are welcome to join us.

Michael was also adopted into a Hawaiian Family and learned Ho'o Ponopono, Lokai Treatment, Lomi Lomi Massage and other Hawaiian techniques of Hawaiian Spirituality.
